Selkirk residents want ANSWERS out

By Susan Wheeler

The only "industry" Selkirk resident Mike Murphy wants in his neighborhood is families raising children, and certainly not the construction of an ANSWERS regional landfill.

The Beaver Dam Road resident said industry in his area now is "as raising our kids, mowing our lawns and taking a hike." Four of the 15 potential landfill sites identified in the recently released ANSWERS watershed report are in the Beaver Dam Road area. The potential landfill sites identified in the report, prepared by Malcom Pirnie, Inc., a consulting firm in Albany, were the subject of Monday night's meeting at A.W. Becker Elementary School.

Others from the 300-plus standing-room-only crowd joined Murphy in telling Albany Commissioner of Public Works George Nealon and representatives from Malcom Pirnie, Inc., why their neighborhoods would not make a good landfill: "All these homes built on landfill would not be tolerated."

"I wouldn't care to live next door to a landfill," said Donald Gillespie, another Beaver Dam Road resident. He said placing a landfill on one of the four potential sites near Beaver Dam Road "would displace not only people living in the area, but also deer and beavers dwelling there."

Most residents suggested that they work together to fight the siting of the regional landfill anywhere in the area. "The majority of those sites identified in Albany are on the Continent tracks, suggesting that the potential future landfill would eventually accept solid waste from downstream. "Be prepared to defend our quality of life. We need to pool our resources to fight these people."

Nealon told the crowd that the landfill siting was mandated by New York state, which set the criteria for choosing a landfill. "There are in the middle of a process... which requires us to handle the solid waste of 280,000 people," he said. "This process requires significant public input."

Supervisor Ken Ringler said the landfill is a "public nuisance" in that it is not the construction and demolition landfill, owned by Glenmont resident Harlen Metz, isthe site of two recent fires. The town's most recent lawsuit, aimed at the settlement of two town lawsuits, will be the focus of an informational meeting on Monday, July 15. The meeting, set for 7:30 p.m. at the Selkirk Fire Company No. 3 Firehouse, Route 396, South Bethlehem, will "bring South Bethlehem residents up to date on the Mets landfill," according to Supervisor Ken Ringler.

Selkirk residents display their feelings on the proposed regional ANSWERS landfill. This sign is posted on Beaver Dam Road in Selkirk.

Ringer sets Monday meeting on C&D landfill

The Spawns Hollow Road landfill, the subject of two town lawsuits, will be the focus of an informational meeting on Monday, July 15. The meeting, set for 7:30 p.m. at the Selkirk Fire Company No. 3 Firehouse, Route 396, South Bethlehem, will "bring South Bethlehem residents up to date on the Mets landfill," according to Supervisor Ken Ringler.

The 5.5-acre South Bethlehem construction and demolition landfill, owned by Binghamton resident Harlen Metz, is the site of two recent fires. The town's most recent lawsuit, served April 8, aims to properly close the landfill, according to Michael Smith, assistant town attorney and senior partner at Roemer and Feathron. "We're in the middle of a process... which requires us to handle the solid waste of 280,000 people," he said. "This process requires significant public input."

Village limits outside watering

The Voorheesville Water District has invoked a sprinkling ban effective immediately.

Phase one includes limited use of outside sprinklers. Even-numbered houses may water from 7 to 9 a.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. on Monday and Wednesday.

Odd-numbered houses may water from 7 to 9 a.m. and 7 to 9 p.m. on Tuesday and Thursday.

Mothers group to meet Monday

Mothers' Time Out will meet on Monday, July 15, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. at the Delmar Reformed Church. Day care is available for children, board of education, said Velma Fuller, a teacher at Glenmont Elementary School with 25 years in the district, and Mary Blashard, a music teacher at the high school and the middle school with 15 years in the district, were the first two to opt for the proposal.

The package is open to teachers 55 or older who have 50 or more years in the system, but whether or not the package will be offered to teachers is up to individual school boards.

The package could affect between 23,000 and 24,000 teachers statewide, said Rotella, a spokesman for the New York State Retired Teachers Association. Eligible teachers have until July 31 to make a decision. Support personnel have from Oct. 1 to Nov. 15 to make a decision.

Under the package, teachers would receive three years additional credit in the system, or approximately six percent more a year pension salary, the governor's report said.

Because the money comes from the retirement system, districts are required to pay back the additional money, times the 20 years the teacher is expected to live, to the retirement system within five years.

The district will not start payments to the system until the 1992-93 school year, said Loomis. Even without specific figures, which would not be available until the July 31 window had closed, the package would save the district money, he said.

Museum continues art show and sale

Houk is working on a rug of the town seal for the town's bicentennial celebration in 1993. Also featured through July are William B. Strong, Debbie Rohrbach and Leonard Tantillo.

Democrats circulate petitions for 3 seats

By Dan Button

Bethlehem Democrats, seeking to fill a full slate of candidates for the November elections, are circulating petitions for three men who will seek County Legislature seats.

The prospective legislative candidates are: Lee t. Griffin, in the 36th legislative district; Frank Rooney, in the 35th; and Robert G. Conti, in the 36th.

When the petitions are completed successfully, they would oppose respectively, incumbent Republican Charles E. Cook, who represents the 35th; and former County Legislature Chairperson James C. Ross, and Dominick DeCecco, who has been named by the party's town committee to fill the seat in the 36th.

The Town Democratic chairmen, Matthew J. Conti, of the 35th; and Robert Griffin, of the 36th, have circulated the petitions.

A resolution to pay a marketing consultant to boost the impact of the Knickerbocker Arena, drew heavy criticism from an Albany County board of supervisors at Monday's legislative session.

Robert Hofmeister of Delmar said he refused to vote for the resolution, which he said raised the cost of the facility's ticket prices.

"It makes no sense," he said. "Calling the resolution a "total waste of money," he said: "If there was ever a time to spend money to decide what the benefits of the civic center were, it would have been at the beginning, not now.

W. Gordon Voris Jr., also a Delmar resident, said that he agreed with the proposal, but suggested that C&L Management, which operates the arena, prepare a report on how the civic center is performing.

Margaret Schwartz of Colonie said she wanted to know nothing of the firm's background or methodology. "We certainly don't need a marketing person to do that kind of thing," she said, "and we sure don't need a p.r. guy.

C&L is listed in the Nynex Yellow Pages as "C&L Public Relations" under the heading "Public Relations Counselors.

Those who had read the proposition called for a letter to the editor contest, which they anticipated in a future issue of this evening's paper, featuring a list of three readers who spend 15 hours each researching to find out what, if any, increased business area hotels, restaurants, retail businesses, parking lots and other enterprises enjoyed as a result of the arena's presence in the city.

County Attorney William Conroy said the firm would spend approximately 70 hours in field work, 35 hours on the evaluation process, and 10 hours compiling data and 30 hours on the final writing of its report.

These leaders were trying to prove to voters that the arena hadn't been a mistake, "you're asking the taxpayers for your money," he said, "and I think that's rotten.

Prentiss read a letter from a local marketing executive expressing a wish to have been considered for the project, which he said, the county issued no Request for Proposals. "Public business is still being conducted behind closed doors," said Prentiss, urging RFP's be issued for future projects.

The sad dilemma of County Executive James Coyne reflects badly, at this early stage, upon the County's government. We need to know, and when did they know it? It's a question that should be put in the record during the current campaign — and preferably asked of some officially.

The county's current financial and personnel crises will create many losers, at least in terms of credibility if not position. But the Republican party (with its own credibility often in doubt) might do well to shun a campaign against Mr. Coyne, for his is a closed chapter.

Thirty years of empire-building

It was 30 years ago this summer when residents of the Capital District learned of Nelson Rockefeller's emerging dream for the capital city. The governor had become annoyed and inflamed by the shabby condition of a lot of old Albany's showplace and who appointed a commission that would tell him to go ahead and tear it down, 98 acres of it.

Better yet, the commission readily went along, for in 1959, carried all the credentials to put the government correct, it's uncommon for a

As a member of the 1991 Empire Girls State, I would like to thank my American Legion Auxiliary Blanchard Unit No. 1060 and Mrs. Helen Brockley for selecting me for this honor. I would also like to share with everyone the wonderful experiences that these events have given me.

I am an incoming senior at Bethlehem Central High School and when I heard about Empire Girls State from their representative, I was skeptical as my friends were when I explained to them the ideas of Girls State. These hundred and forty girls established a mythical state and gave it a name, which was not sound like most ideals' summer vacation.

But what I learned was much more. I learned to get along with others, to make friends quickly, to campaign for myself and others and deliver speeches, and to debate.

For those not familiar with the basics, Girls State is basically a workshop covering all aspects of government and political science. The attending are decided by thousands of 34 of each. Girls alter

The teams returned with their hands after the allotted 50 minutes. And to see what those youngsters had collected thanks to the generosity of our neighbors — made us incredibly proud of them! They had collected enough food and toiletries to fill two large cartoons. The end results were nine young people making a lot of fun — and two large boxes of food and goods for the food pantry.

So, to our generous neighbors: our heartfelt thanks for making this possible.

And to those nine super kids — Mary-Beth Baseline, Marielle D'Agwone, Katie Hewitt, Sara Hughes, Beth Lee-Herbert, Tim Leonard, Elizabeth Strieder, Miss Austin Nusbaum a, and Kristen Smith — we say “You’re the greatest!” If they are the world’s future, we have nothing to worry about!

The sad dilemma of Mr. Rockefeller became a “spend and spend and spend” mentality, collapsing budgets here (and elsewhere).

The figures cited in this connection are indeed staggering.

Mr. Rinfret himself seems undecided as to whether Mr. Cuomo, recognizing the budgeted obligations (bills elsewhere), will step up and run and inevitably lose.

His commentary does hit hard on the governor's apparent coy indescribability: "Whoever is the next... With the Veto into the subject of his possible run for the presidency, he has used the opportunity to play with the media, play with words, demonstrate his knowledge of national affairs, play cat and mouse with everyone."
Retelling a political murder mystery

"Meet Dr. Weiss of New Orleans..."

I do take a tale at that intermission several years ago at one of those tall hotels on Central Park South, and the inscription on the damask that would have been quite inapropos. But as Archie Bunker would put it, I sowed my seeds in time and properly acknowledged the rather small, dark-haired man with the pleasant face and manner to whom I was being introduced. At one day very recently I did a double take to read the blatant and out-of-context newspaper headline:

Who shot Huey Long?

The theory, all but universally believed, is that more than a half-century ago the famous "Kingfish" of Louisiana politics and the United States Senate was assassinated by a Dr. Weiss of New Orleans.

Huey P. Long had been governor of Louisiana, which he ruled with iron hand, before he entered the Senate in 1932, the same year that Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected President. He had been a somewhat more modest magazine co-founder, but had launched a national figure that threatened to overshadow or even overtake FDR. He had bequeathed his son, a Senate proxy, to seek the 1936 Democratic nomination against President Roosevelt. All this by the time he was barely 42 years old. He had seen years that brought the millions who had been trampled in the Depression would respond to fire the fatal shot at Long. For permission for the related inquest, which appeared to be wholly unfacetious (but legally sanctioned) has been given by Dr. Weiss's 50-year-old son. The slaying occurred 65 years ago next September, incidentally.

Uncle Dudley

Dr. Carl Weiss, the young physician immediately upon hearing the fatal shot fired, was himself slain instantly in a hail of police bullets from the senator's bodyguards.

Dr. Weiss was only 29 years old when he was murdered. He had assumed the murder of which he was accused never was clearly established. One the several kind some of his personal animus, but it has always seemed far-fetched.

Another theory still holds that Dr. Weiss had the mistake to be in the wrong place at the wrong time for his own good and that he was a victim of Long's maladministration. Senator Long put into action the guards themselves.

The reason for the recent head- line asking that blust question: Who shot Huey Long? is an exhumation scheduled for later this year by a team of investigators. One of their goals is to try to establish, through the location of the multiple wounds, whether Dr. Weiss could have been in a position to fire the fatal shot at Long. Permission for the belated inquest (which apparently he was wholly un facetious but legally sanctioned) has been given by Dr. Weiss's 50-year-old son. The slaying occurred 65 years ago next September, incidentally.

Constant or even frequent readers of Constant Reader are aware that this column occasionally searches out regional publications for those rare stories that are missed by the favorites are "Adirondack Life," a study periodical of many years' standing; "Up River," featuring 113 pages; and "Up/ River/ Down River," a somewhat more modest magazine which is now offering its fifth issue.

Both magazines are essentially on a regional schedule, though "Adirondack Life" lists seven issues per year. The current issues of "Up River/ Down River," but "Adirondack Life" omits the "July/ August" from its impressive blue-and-white cover featuring a view of Elk Lake.

I find great pleasure in perusing these magazines; they seem to arrive only too infrequently.

And in such a case, some of the best reading to be found in the shorter pieces before you reach the feature or front cover, and not to mention the column, "this Adirondack Life." Europe’s fine highways outdistance our roads

Editor, The Spotlight:

In our collective frenzy over automobiles, parking, the cost of gasoline and the decay of our infrastructure (a term that can mean almost anything but is most commonly applied to highways and bridges), we rarely seem to consider the possibility of improving the technology of automotive transportation.

It is particularly frustrating that our roads and bridges appear to deteriorate as fast as we build them. The wretched condition of Delaware Avenue under the D&H overpass is one of innumerable examples; another is the bridge over the NormansKill, and yet another is the virtually continuous repair work on the Dunn Memoria Bridge to Rensselaer.

I hesitate to remind readers that when the Thruway bridge over Schoharie Creek collapsed, traffic was re-routed over an ex-railroad bridge that was about a hundred years old.

That we can and should do better is vividly demonstrated by an article recently published in England’s The Weekly Guardian. It reports that “European countries have developed an asphalt pavement that lasts twice as long and handles heavier loads than U.S. roads are, quieter, and does not rust.” Federal and State highway officials in the United States are quoted as being concerned in this assessment.

Grass-roots lobbying seeks less for arms

Editor, The Spotlight:

Ben and Jerry’s “One World, One Heart” held in Saratoga Springs, Vermont, on the last weekend of June, attracted over 25,000 people, including at least seven from the Delaware County district.

The lucky seven were Mark and Polly Yoly, Dickie Wilson, Maxine Whitt, Ann Richards, and Don and Ann Eberle.

They are members of “20/20 Vision,” a grass-roots lobbying organization dedicated to reducing the country’s military budget and expansion of the domestic budget, through the democratic process of lobbying the policymakers.

Postcards were handed out to attendees, who were asked to write to their Representatives in Congress.

This year’s giant ice cream social put new emphasis on the social aspect. Four issues were suggested by 20/20 Vision to be addressed via the postcards. The issues are: (1) The international sale of arms; (2) An increased burden for ecology, which now receives $10 billion compared with the Pentagon’s $200 billion; (3) The need for a federal farm policy to support family farms; and (4) A request that Congress refuse to earmark more money for the B2 “stealth” bomber.

The seven 20/20 members who traveled from Albany, Delmar, and Voorheesville worked hard to help other attendees address their issues to policy-makers in Washington.

Voorheesville budget: ‘Yes’ on 6 propositions, ‘no’ on base budget urged

Editor, The Spotlight: It is certainly unbelievable and almost impossible that the Voorheesville Central School budget of $10,405,768, which was voted down by a significant majority on June 12, is now up for vote again, with no changes whatsoever.

I have to wonder whether some people who voted against the June 12 budget resolution would take the time to re-examine the facts presented by the school district.

In the media reports of comments by school Board members ever since the June 12 vote, I believe that there is a need for the school district to re-examine its 2019 budget, which was $10,417,333 for a total increase of $72,065 or 0.6 percent.

The base budget, as listed at $10,166,228, when added to the cost of the six propositions, totals $10,166,228, which was significant. It is not as if the school district was able to increase the budget of $10,166,228, when added to the cost of the six propositions, without some increase. Someone made a mistake, or is an example of an inability to provide an adequate budget.

I believe that proponents of the new voting propositions 1 through 6 will ensure that the voters will vote “yes” on the propositions since they seem to be the most expensive of all propositions.

In the new budget, the school board and staff are looking for some way to get the school district to a more “efficient” level of spending. It is not as if the school district was able to increase the budget of $10,166,228 for the school district.”

Budget cut saga continues

By Debi Boucher
A little more than six months into a year fraught with fiscal problems, the town of Bethlehem is faced with another round for emergency budget sessions.

At last week’s town board meeting, Supervisor Herbert Reilly advised fellow councilmen that new and repeated federal budget cuts will likely force the town to address a financial crisis because of cuts in state aid and reduced sales tax revenue.

Reilly also presented a special meeting at 7 p.m. on Monday, July 22, to discuss options. By then, Reilly hopes to have some input from department heads on what their priorities are and where other budget cuts might stand some trimming.

In a July 1 letter to department heads, Reilly said that if state aid reductions are not restored, “Some department budgets might have to be cut by more than 25 percent immediately.”

Asked if those reductions would equal more than 25 percent, Reilly said Monday, “That would be the very last resort.” But he did say two summer positions in the parks department may have to be eliminated in mid-summer rather than continued through the fall.

According to a recent Association of Towns analysis of the state budget, Reilly said, New York state’s capital aid, which caps aid at a percentage of the state’s GDP, a 6 percent decrease from last year, he said, the towns received a total of $130,153 — $83,153 for the A account, which includes the village of Voorheesville, as well as the town, and $47,000 in the B account, which includes the town of Bethlehem.

That said, it has also factored an expected $45,000 decrease in sales tax revenue for the year. New York state’s state aid, which matched sales tax revenues down $11,500 from the same quarter last year, Reilly said his contacts with the county have so far indicated second quarter cuts, due July 15, will also be low.

Aside from mortgage taxes, which also come from the county, sales taxes are the only dependable revenue the town has seen this year, Reilly said. The state budget crisis has held up checks to municipalities, and New York state, like other surrounding towns, is faced with mounting bills that might otherwise have been paid. “We’ve got bills we won’t be able to pay until we get the sales tax money,” he said.

Anticipating some cuts in aid due to the state budget crisis, the town board anticipated a 10 percent decrease in per capita aid when drawing up its budget last fall, Reilly said.

In early February, the expectation of higher aid cuts and increased expenses in taping fees at AFP/WWCM, $439-9273. And increased sales tax revenue for the B account, which also come from the county, as well as other aid, will go towards the highway fund, department will be hardest hit by the cuts in aid, as the sales tax revenue, now 90 percent of that money generally goes to the highway department, according to Reilly.

In late May, Reilly suggested the town board consider selling several parcels of town-owned land in order to avert the fiscal crisis it was seeing. The board gave Reilly authority to seek estimates from other towns on how they processed the problem by which land would be sold. Town Attorney Bill Roster advised Reilly to check the procedures used by other towns; Reilly said his findings indicate the process varies, with some towns using sealed bids and other public auctions. Either way, he said, a 30-day permissive referendum is required. Reilly still needs to consult with Roster, who was not at the July 3 meeting on the referendum. The referendum’s timeframe, sale of the land will be one of the options the board considers at the July 22 budget session. The meeting, which is open to the public, will begin at 7 p.m. on town hall.

IMPORTANCE OF YOUR MEDICAL HISTORY

Your general medical history has a lot to do with the type of treatment you will receive at your dentist. For example, if you are taking a drug affecting blood clotting, the dentist should be informed so he can be aware of potential hemorraging problems he should have to extract a tooth.

A patient with high blood pressure should certainly inform the dentist. Certain anesthetics and medications should be used in preference to others.

If you have some form of heart condition, the dentist may change his method of working with you. The patient with a cardiac pacemaker should certainly inform his dentist. The dentist might have to plan his treatment around obtaining blood samples as well as not using electrocautery, a technique that utilizes high-frequency current to remove gum tissue. If the patient doesn't have proper shielding or safeguards, the high-frequency current could cause it to stop or become erratic. The dentist can use other means of treatment.

If you are pregnant, diabetic, allergic to certain medication, your dentist must know these things—it's for your benefit.

The Blue Eagles hold first place in Eastern N.Y., 3-0 for the week

By Michael Kagan

It was just another week at the office last week for the Bethlehem Mickey Mantle baseball team, as it posted a 30-0 record for the week, maintained its hold on first place in the Eastern New York division and lowered its "magic number" over both teams to two games.

Bethlehem (14-2 league, 18-4 overall) has three league games remaining and leads Colonie (13-3) and Rotterdam (10-3-1), who are tied for second place. Any combination of Bethlehem wins and Colonie or Rotterdam losses, which equals two, will eliminate that team from contention.

The Blue Eagles last week won a July 4 non-league double header in New Jersey, blowing out Fairfield, N.J., 11-4, and beating the New York Angels for the second time this season. Bethlehem earned a league victory at home against Twin Town, 2-1, Saturday.

Against Fair Lawn, Dave Miles pitched three innings for the victory. Josh Larini finished the game and earned a save. Offensively, Marc Mannella, who had been injured for the early part of the season, had two singles and three RBI. Miles, Gambelunge, Lann and Mike Pelletier each drove in one run.

Against Twin Town, Miles threw a complete game, striking out seven, walking one, and allowing five hits to boost his record to 9-1 and make him the most winning pitcher for one season in Bethlehem Mickey Mantle history.

The Bethlehem defense contributed an errorless game behind him. Pelletier provided the Blue Eagle offense, blasting a solo home run to put Bethlehem on the board and scoring the winning run in the final half inning. He led off the bottom of the seventh by reaching on a fielding error by the shortstop, moved to second on a double and a RBI. Brian Garver collected three singles, while Pelletier and Larini each had two RBI. Brian Mullan, Paul Kendall, and Josh Formica each drove in a run.

The team will be managed by Jim Murray and coached by Steve DelGiacco and Dennis DiMura. Four games will be played Saturday at the park, and two Sunday, July 14. The winner of the tournament will advance to a sectional tournament and will try to make it to the final game in Williamport, Pa. There is no admission charge at McGee Park and the concession stand will be open. The losers bracket of the tournament will start on Sunday at the American Little League in Albany.

Several other Little League championships will start this week. The single elimination, 10-year-old all-star tournament will take place at the Westfield Hills Little League in Spencertown and will begin at Sunday. The double elimination 11-year-old all-star tournament will start play in Cook Park in Colonie, the home of Colonie Little League, Saturday at 5 p.m.

The City and County Tournament, which is for majors division teams, will be held at the West Albany Little League Saturday, July 6. The intermediate and minor league all-star tournament began Sunday, July 7, at Whittall Little League.

Winners of those four tournaments become the District 13 Champions, but do not have the opportunity to play for any further championships.

Winning essay supports DARE

This week and the next two weeks we will be printing the winning entries of the Second Annual DARE Program Essay/Poem Contest sponsored by Bethlehem Central School. The winners each win books donated by the Bethlehem Police Officer's Union.

This week, we feature sixth-grader David Maher's essay, the winner from Team 6B.

DARE

Drug Abuse is a deadly game. If you take drugs your life could be ruined. There is a class that is called DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education) that helps you say NO! to drugs. This class is very important that special police officers are trained to help kids stay away from drugs.

Everyone knows drugs damage your brain. Unfortunately many people still take them. According to the magazine Scientific American, March 1991, there are almost 3.5 million heroin and cocaine addicts in the United States. Other drugs that are abused are cigarettes, alcohol, and marijuana. Sadly some of the world's athletic superstars abuse drugs. Ben Johnson, the winner of the hundred-meter dash at the 1988 Olympics, broke the world record but was disqualified for testing positive for the use of steroids.

Tommy Lee Jones, a pitch hitter for the Mets, was suspended and fined for drug use. Len Bias, a potential NBA star, paid the ultimate price. He lost his life from the use of cocaine. As you can see, drugs are a terrible thing to get into.

If we can get young kids into the DARE program then maybe some drug dealers who deal cocaine and crack won't have business at all. If we can stop the majority of kids from starting drugs, our world would be so much more safe for everyone.

Remember, You are always in control of the magazine.

Feathers, lace, and ribbons associated with the famous Can Can kick, stimulating historic walking tours through Spa Park, or a photo-essay of the race track strike your fancy, the Saratoga Springs area is the place to be this summer.

One of the more glamorous events will be at the National Museum of Dance during the fifth-annual black-tie benefit, "The Can Can Gala," set for Saturday, Aug. 3. Pounding president of the museum, Mary Lou Whitney began the gala as a fund-raising event. The annual ball takes place the night of the Whitney Stakes at the Saratoga Racetrack.

Each year the gala is centered around a specific dance theme. Last year's atmosphere was flavored with the music and costume of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream." This year's guests will feel the ambiance of the movie, "Can Can," set in a park in Montmartre, France, starring Frank Sinatra, Shirley MacLaine, and Maurice Chevalier. The movie will be silently shown and costumed dancers from Darlene Myers Dance Studio in Schenectady will perform a choreographed Can Can.

A spacious tent, reminiscent of a Montmartre park, will host the men and women adorned in two-color and garters. For the first time in the five years running, the tent will have air conditioning provided by Whitney. A black and white color scheme will be accentuated with vibrant oranges and yellow, as well as feathers, lace, and ribbons.

Highlighting the evening will be a raffle. Two American Airlines tickets to anywhere in the continental United States, a Calvin Klein Georgette Tunic and Pants, two nights at the Eliza Carlton in Boston and a tour of the Museum of Fine Arts, a weekend in a Lake Placid condo, Alan Richkow's "Standing Dancer," a pencil study for painting and a charcoal piece by Lloyd Kelly entitled "Pointe Shoes" are included as prizes.

According to gala volunteer Maureen Lewis, "The event is a mix of Albany Capital District people and the racing people, including in-town trainers of the racing season at Saratoga." She said, adding that roughly "four or five hundred" people attend.

Chaired by Susan Dale from Saratoga Springs, cocktail hour will begin at 7:30 p.m. and dinner will be served at 8:30 followed by dancing to the Neal Smith Orchestra. The cost of tickets is $250 per person. For anyone under 35 years of age, a junior patron's price will be charged at $150 per person.

But perhaps nature and history are of greater appeal to your senses — and your pocketbook. The Saratoga Spa State Park guided walking tours are a perfect way to combine a view of nature and history.

Tours are given Sunday through Friday, at 10:30 a.m. For the first time, park tours will leave from the Gideon Putnam Hotel, which is located in the core of the park. Tom Cobb, park manager, said the hotel is a good point of departure because it is "more frequently seen and accessible to patrons."

The walk will give participants a sense of the history and architecture of the "modern spa." This modern spa consists of areas other than the picnic grounds, including the springs, hotel, Victorian pool complex, the Spa Little Theater and golf courses. In addition to this mix, the participants will have the pleasure of touring a regulated National Historical Landmark. The Saratoga Spa State Park is unique because it is one of the few regulated parks that is

Right turns on red help conserve fuel

State laws allowing motorists to make right turns at red lights have helped drivers burn less fuel by not idling their engines unnecessarily, says the Federal Highway Administration.

However, several states have considered rescinding the privilege because of increased intersection collisions and confusion for pedestrians. New York City is the only municipality which does not permit the turns.

Safety experts suggest drivers heed these hints:

• Signal intent to turn at least 100 feet from the intersection.

• Move close to the right side of the road.

• Come to a complete stop before reaching the painted stop line or entering the crosswalk.

There's a right way to turn right.

• Check the traffic in both directions.

• Look for pedestrians or obstructions in the crosswalks.

• Execute turn if there are no hazards.
