Fernbank Ave. neighbors still press for traffic sign

By Mel Hyman

As Delmar evolved into a major bedroom community for Albany, the number of commuters using narrow, secondary streets like Fernbank Avenue to travel to and from work has grown by leaps and bounds.

That has caused concern for 140 or so homeowners on Fernbank and adjoining side streets, since only a small portion of the street has sidewalks. And kids—often wander into the roadway in their travels.

In an effort to discourage speeding and prevent a tragedy, 135 people signed petitions last year seeking installation of a stop sign at Brookside Drive and Fernbank. The petitioners were particularly worried about speeding that occurs along the stretch of Fernbank between Wisconsin and Palmer avenues.

"The committee isn’t really sold on it," said the chairman, was still trailing Fuller in the first Conservative Party primary in Bethlehem since 1985. As of Monday night, before the counting of the absentee ballots, Fuller held a five-vote edge, 38-33. When the machines were originally canvased, Fuller was ahead 44 to 34.

Clyne expressed satisfaction with the results, saying he was pleased by the number of write-in votes he received.

Republicans have consistently received the Conservative nod since 1979 in large part due to the canvassing efforts of Republican Receiver of Taxes Ken Hahn. In 1988, all six Republican candidates swept the town, including Town Supervisor John Dorfman, chairman of the town Conservative committee.

A new group is forming to keep tabs on the Southgate Commons shopping center proposal as it winds its way through the Bethlehem planning process. Dubbed Citizens Monitoring Southgate, the group has no prejudiced opinions about whether or not the regional shopping plaza should be built. "It's just a big project that's coming to town," said group spokesman Karen Bonventre.

"And we want to keep informed so that we can make our opinions known to the planning board," Bonventre said.

Glenmont neighbors to keep watch on Southgate project

As of Monday, before the Selkirk Fire Station No. 3 last week to break up a fight that started when a bachelor party got out of hand.

About 15 to 20 party-goers were scuffling in the parking lot outside the South Bethlehem station at 48 Bridge St. when police arrived at about 1 a.m. Wednesday, Sept. 15.

There were some minor injuries, but no one requested medical treatment and no arrests were made, according to Bethlehem Police Lt. Frederick Holligan.

Asked whether there may have been an exotic dancer at the party, Holligan replied yes. New Scotland youths arrested for vandalism

By Dev Tobin

Two New Scotland youths allegedly responsible for thousands of dollars of damage to Clarksville Elementary School were arrested by sheriff’s deputies Saturday, Sept. 18.

The names of the two boys, ages 13 and 11, were withheld by police and the case will be handled in Family Court.

The boys were each charged with three felony counts, two of third-degree burglary and one of third-degree criminal mischief, and were released in the custody of their parents, police said.

The youths were arrested after they were seen inside the school by a security guard, then observed leaving around 4 p.m.

They were tracked to a nearby convenience store by the sheriff’s K-9 unit, police said.

The boys cooperated with police and also admitted to a previous break-in at the school on Sept. 12, in which a $1,500 window and every exterior light were broken, “pure vandalism,” according to Investigator Craig Apple.

“Since the middle of summer, there have been numerous windows smashed, lights shot out with BB guns and a $650 skylight broken,” said Apple, estimating the damage at around $4,000.

“Kids may think vandalism is not a big deal and that they’ll get away with it, but these kids are charged with serious felonies,” Apple added.

“This is not fun and games. They will probably have to pay full restitution, and may be sent away to a youth home,” although the final determination of their punishment is up to Family Court, whose proceedings and decisions are secret.

The youths also allegedly stole cameras, a Dictaphone, and a set of keys to the building, Apple said. “Because the keys were stolen, the school had to replace all its locks.”

The arrests are a relief for Clarksville Principal Cheryl MacCullough, who said that “vandalism was nonexistent” at the school until this situation started with these kids.”

MacCullough echoed the police comments on the seriousness of crimes committed by vandals.

“It’s important that these kids realize the consequences of their actions, no matter what their age,” she said, adding that the district intended to press charges.

Mansion sets scene for independent film
By Dev Tobin

When people leave town for vacation, they normally inform the police so the vacation can be put on "vacation watch." But Paul Mulligan had no need to worry about burglary, since he took his vacation in August, as a movie crew moved into his home, the Nicoll-Sill House in Cedar Hill.

The independent film Under Heat, starring Lee Grant and directed by Peter Reed, used the oldest house in town for several indoor and outdoor scenes.

It was the first time a historic house, built in 1735 for a branch of the Van Rensselaer family, had been used as a set, Mulligan said.

"They used the whole house just about," Mulligan explained. Many of the downstairs rooms were used as sets, and the upstairs bedrooms were converted into dressing rooms and makeup stations, he noted.

The movie is a contemporary family drama set in upstate New York, with the Nicoll-Sill House in Cedar Hill.

Grant plays the mother of two sons, one of whom is "living with AIDS," and the film deals with the family reunion, where all are "confronted with the reality of their own mortality," according to Janice Wide, production coordinator.

The brothers are played by Eric Swanson and Rob Knepper.

The film was shot in July and August, and is currently undergoing post-production editing in New York City. In preparation for an upcoming film market where distributors will bid on it.

"We hope it will be distributed as a feature film by spring," Wilde said. "It's a high quality film, I don't think it will have a problem selling.

Wilde added that construction traffic into and out of the nearby sewage treatment plant and the town's new well could have played havoc with the sound quality of the film, but "the construction guys were wonderful; they would stop when we asked.

One unusual aspect of the filming was the apparent intervention of a resident spirit in the painting of the reception room.

"We were pulling out all kinds of cans of paint to get the ivory color we wanted, but it kept coming out pink," Wilde recalled. "Paul told us there was a Victorian lady in the house" who apparently prefers pink.

Mulligan said he was "very happy with the way they left the property. They repaired every nick and scratch, and also added screens to the front porch and architecturally appropriate shelving and bookcases in the second-floor study.

The house, bought by Mulligan from the town in 1983 and restored over the past decade, is for sale for $398,000.

State inspectors OK Selkirk Fire District
By Mel Hyman

The second investigation into health and safety violations at the three Selkirk firehouses has resulted in a clean bill of health for the district.

State Department of Labor spokeswoman Margaret Eighmey said that all of the problems detected during an inspection last fall have been corrected, and no fines were assessed. The case was officially closed on Aug. 30.

The original citations concerned relatively minor problems, according to Selkirk Fire Commissioner Jack Bailey. As an example, the agency inspector cited the district because the holes in the grill covering a kitchen exhaust fan were too large.

Other violations concerned the polarity of some electrical sockets and the grounding of a dishwasher in the ladies auxiliary kitchen. Bailey said.

The problems cited with the district's written policy manual were also fairly insignificant, Bailey said, and everything has now been brought up to state standards.

A prior investigation into health and safety shortcomings was settled earlier this year with all problems rectified. Fines of about $20,000 were levied as a result of that case. It was the first and only time the district was fined for violations, according to district councilman Thomas Jeram.

Another bit of good news for the district is that it passed its annual audit by the state Comptroller's Office with flying colors.

"It was the fifth consecutive year that the district's books had been examined by the comptroller and found to be problem-free.

Two weeks after attending classes at Bethel Central High School and touring local and regional sites, seven students from Spain are reluctant to head home, as they must on Friday.

"I'd like to come back for a whole year and see everything," said Alejandro Flores.

"They are reluctant to go home because they have not seen anything except for the cafeteria food and about half what they cost in Europe."

The seven, from Jaraiz de la Vera in Extremadura, southwest of Madrid, are the first fruit of the Partnerships for Educational and Cultural Exchanges (PEACE) program at BC.

A similar group from BC is scheduled to return the visit in the spring of 1995, according to Patricia Dumont, second languages supervisor for the district.

The group attended classes and activities, at BCHS, including Spanish, exchange students Oscar Fernandez and Sandy Venturas, and GE Selkirk, according to BC Spanish teacher Teresa Bari-Carla Varno, who coordinated the exchange along with fellow teacher Michele Allah.

The exchange seemed to fulfill the goals of the PEACE program, as BC students learned that their Spanish contemporaries are "not so different from us; they like the same music, and have the same problems learning another language," Barcia Varno said.

It should help her students motivation to "see them (the Spaniards) struggle with English like they struggle with Spanish," she added.

The students said they wished they could drive earlier in Spain, "they must wait until they are 18," they must wait until they are 18, but noted that their American friends had expressed great interest in the fact that the drinking age in Spain is 16.

While the students generally said nice things about America (except for the cafeteria food) and clearly relished the opportunity to travel, Sandy Venturas said she found Americans to be "very materialistic," adding that "it is important to see how other people live.

Showing a touch of materialism themselves, all agreed that the price of that worldwide teenage staple — blue jeans — was very reasonable in the United States, about half what they cost in Europe.

Among the other Spanish students are Oscar Fernandez, Soledad Hernandez and Lucía Morales.

The students stayed with the following families — Brian and Patricia Ginn, Thomas and Bernice Christian, Dr. Joseph and Susan Hart, Fred and Marilyn Dunn, Dr. Stuart and Jane Lyman, John and Carole Dorrman and George and Sandra Walker.

Dems sweep primary for Conservative line

By Dev Tobin

In a result that confirms the difficulty of winning write-in campaigns, Democrats in New Scotland swept away their Republican rivals in last week's primary for the Conservative Party line on the November ballot.

The Democrats were on the primary ballot after winning the endorsement of the town Conservative committee, so the Republicans had to write in their name or subsidize campaign.

In unofficial vote totals, incumbent Democrat Supervisor Herb Reilly outpolled Republican challenger Lynn Holmberg 32-14.

In town board contests, for two four-year terms, Democratic challenger Scott Houghtaling (31 votes) bested incumbent Republican Al G. Ostrander, Sr. and Robert J. Misiesen made the arrest.

On Monday, Sept. 13, deputies arrested Bethlehem police following a report of shots fired near the intersection of Elm Avenue and Jericho Road. The incident was reported at 11 p.m.

Residents warned of phone scam

Bethlehem police are advising local residents to beware of telephone calls from people claiming to be raising funds for a police-sponsored drug prevention program.

“We're not in the process of raising money,” said Police Lt. Frederick Holligan. “We do not get on the phone and solicit funds.”

A handful of local businesses and at least one private citizen have been contacted thus far.

The caller says that a retired police officer in uniform will be around to collect the money. Thus is simply untrue, Holligan said.

“We just want to warn people not to give any information over the phone and to call us if they receive any calls like this,” he said.

Attorney honored for efforts on behalf of women

By Susan Graves

Award-winning attorney and Delmar resident Rachel Kretser believes women in the legal profession still have a long way to go to achieve equal footing with their male counterparts.

"Women have made a great deal of progress, but have a long way to go in a profession dominated by men," said Kretser, who is an assistant attorney general and vice president of the state Women's Bar Association.

Although the numbers of women enrolling and graduating from law school have reached parity with men, the numbers who go to fill judicial positions barely fall in line with the double-digit range statewide and are far less than that on the local level.

"Women are grossly under-represented in the state's judiciary," Kretser said. "Over the last few decades, women have entered the legal profession in a near tidal wave but, at the top level, we have generated barely a ripple."

Locally, the picture is even dimmer than in the rest of New York. "There are no minorities and only a handful of women. We are far behind the rest of the state."

The numbers speak for themselves. Statewide, 15 percent of the judiciary seats are held by women, compared to about 3 to 4 percent in the Capital District. Some counties, including Rensselaer County, have yet to see a woman on the bench.

Kretser thinks the dearth of women on the judiciary may be due in part to the fact that local political leaders have not focused on the matter.

"We in the Women's Bar work to make them aware there are a number well qualified to serve," she said.

For Kretser's efforts to enhance the advancement of women in the law, she received the state Women's Bar Association's Marilyn Menge Award for 1993. The award is named after Menge, a former Capital District resident and attorney who died of cancer at age 31.

According to Patricia Lynch, press officer for the 3,100-member state association, the award was perfectly suited to the recipient. "Rachel Kretser is one of the rising stars in the legal profession, and she practices what she preaches," Lynch said.

Through her activities in the association, on her job and on a number of organizations she belongs to, Kretser has been a strong advocate for women and the law. "We work to remove any remaining barriers that prevent women attorneys from achieving professional potential," Kretser said.

Part of that effort includes pro bono work to reach out to the poor and involvement in impact litigation. The Women's Bar works to provide legal assistance to women and to bring political forces to bear on the Legislature. Recent issues the association took a stand on include an act to amend the Executive Law in relation to certain private clubs, an act to amend the penal, criminal and civil rights laws in relation to blocking or obstructing entrance to a health care facility and an act to amend the domestic relations law in relation to child custody.

Kretser said the award she received this year "means a great deal to me. Menge was a close personal friend and a special, courageous human being. She was committed to the Women's Bar."

According to Leslie E. Stein, president of the Capital District Chapter of the New York State Women's Bar Association, Kretser has worked tirelessly on behalf of women in the legal profession. "She brings a professionalism to all her efforts and has a way with people. She can be forceful and effective in a non-pushy way," Stein said.

She added that Kretser is always encouraging members of the Women's Bar to apply for and speak out for judiciary positions.

The trip across five states and seven mountain ranges originated when a friend told her in 1981 that an old buggy with a new motor existed in her local area. "I decided Elyce Turner in a station wagon, Pound, who was then in her 70s, followed a route she had scouted out and met her cousin to hand over the buggy at a family reunion in Sleepy Creek, W.Va.

Pound had to dig out her pictures and notes of the trip to Middleburgh. "I gave a talk soon after to the New Scotland Historical Society, but I hadn't been giving talks lately" she said. Pound was a correspondent for The Spotlight during her trip, noting the sights and sounds of traveling at a horse's pace, and the reactions from people to seeing a buggy on a modern road.

For example, in southern Pennsylvania, "B.B. and I stopped for water at a McDonald's drive-through. We didn't set off the request signal, but we did see some incredulous faces at the walk-out window," she wrote.

"It was a wonderful time and I'd like to repeat it," she said.

Pound has acquired another of her grandfather's buggies, and this time, she would like to set up a trip to Flint, Mich., where the Paterson buggies were manufactured and where one of her grandfather's factories, now used for research by General Motors, is still standing.

Rachel Kretser

NS resident retells buggy trip tale

By Dev Tobin

Although it was six years ago, Madelon Paterson Pound's buggy trip from New Scotland to West Virginia, and back again, is still talked about among local historical societies.

Monday, Pound again told the story of her 1987 trip in a "doctor's buggy" that was built by her grandfather, William Paterson, to the Colonie Historical Society at the Colonie Town Library.

"We in the Women's Bar work to reach out to the poor and to bring political force to bear on the Legislature to make them aware there are a good deal of progress, but have a long way to go with people," Stein said.

She added that Kretser is always encouraging members of the Women's Bar to apply for and speak out for judiciary positions.

Kretser, a former president of the Capital District Women's Bar Association, is a member of the international Women's Pilots Association, the Lawyer-Pilots Bar Association, the Capital District Trial Lawyers and the Albany County Bar Association.

She is married to Michael Bossert. Kretser and Bossert have a son, Jonathan.

Kretser credits her parents for a good deal of her success. "I owe a debt of gratitude to my parents. My father was an inspiration to me," she said.

Kretser, a native of Cambridge, Mass., is a graduate of the University at Albany and Brooklyn Law School. She is the head of the Albany Bureau of Consumer Frauds and Protection.
Matters of Opinion

The Homestead hearing tonight

Editorials

The Spotlight has consistently taken the position editorially that Homestead is an unfair and unwise deterrent to a thriving commercial base for the town with only relatively trivial advantages for individual property-owners.

We have, however, invariably fully reported both sides of the ongoing debate, and at this point we point to the desirability of all aspects of the law to be fully discussed at this make-or-break, pre-election vote.

Scheduled for 7:30 p.m., the hearing is to be held at Town Hall. All citizens are invited to attend and speak up.

Every office is an important one

It’s one of those “off years” in the election calendar, and as off-years sometimes do, happen opportunities for those citizens registered to vote will fall to receive the polls on Nov. 2 because there’s no Governor, Comptroller, or other glamorous office to be filled.

Nonetheless, the county and town offices that do appear on the ballot merit the scrutiny of all residents in order that informed choices of preferred candidates can be made.

To that end, The Spotlight will publish — as it has in recent years — interviews with each candidate for all the offices. Those candidates will be identified by the special logo which appears here. We urge readers to look for it.

Soon enough, leaf-rakers will be out in force, piling up our bounties for trucks to carry off to some less-offensive spot.

For an elected attorney-general

Last Spring, when State Comptroller Ned Regan resigned and the Democratic majority in the Legislature selected his replacement (H. Carl McCall), The Spotlight editorially deplored the process. We advocated filling the job by popular vote in a special election, to be held, not last minute, at the next general elections (with an acting comptroller designated from within the departmental staff).

Now the situation duplicates itself through the forthcoming resignation of Attorney General Robert Abrams, who wants to go practice law in Wall Street as a means of regaining some of his financial footing.

The Legislature’s Democrats will now choose his successor; to date, New York City residents are counted as the front-runners. The vacancy will actually occur only ten months before the 1994 election. We reiterate the desirability of adhering to the principle of popular election of such an important public officer. True, a court has more or less caned Bushy’s replacement, but it’s just that simple.

Sixth-graders start school year at picnic

Editor, The Spotlight:

The sixth-grade picnic was a great success! From 4 to 7 p.m. on Sept. 12, over 130 parents, children, teachers, and administrators gathered in a welcome to the new school year, the Middle School grounds and playing fields, and the extended family of the school.

Planned and hosted by Middle Works!, a student task force, with support from the PTA, families visited children and played under the direction of Bob Salamone and Mary Loucier, and everyone seemed to be having fun.

Youth’s DWI deaths prompt retail check

Editor, The Spotlight:

The Sept. 8 editorial, "A Wrong Way to do Good," could use some clarification.

First, I agree that a pharmacy might seem an inappropriate outlet for the selling of alcoholic beverages, especially if it involves minors. Every seller of alcoholic beverages in the town is aware of State Liquor Authority guidelines.

Recently, the Chief of Police sent letters to the alcohol-sellers as to updates in the liquor law.

Why is the Albany County Sheriff’s "STOP-DWI Program," supportive of the Bethlehem Police Department, blanket patrols, sobriety checkpoints, and SLA check and inspections? Because two students, Erin Cox and David Bartholomew, died as a result of underage drivers who obtained alcohol illegally.

After Erin Cox’s death on Aug. 26, 1992, Bethlehem Youth Opportunities, as part of the leadership of Holly Billings, and Mona Prenoveau, mobilized the community to look into the problem of underage drinking.

1993 has been targeted as the year of zero DWI-related fatalities in Bethlehem. The Bethlehem Police Department’s efforts to follow National Highway Traffic Safety Administration (NHTSA) recommendations to increase SLA enforcement in the area of underage drinking should be commended. How else can the high DWI fatality rate be impacted? Law enforcement efforts that save lives should be encouraged.

Editor’s note: The Spotlight editorial was critical of authorities employing teenagers to make alcoholic beverage purchases, the effect of which was to enter three retail stores as teenagers and make illegal purchases. In the two instances cited by Mr. Foley, an adult was arrested for making the purchase in one instance and for driving while intoxicated in another. The authorities never satisfactorily established that the purchase was made by a minor in the other case.

Comeup! Tea, for a party of one

Restaurant servers are wary of me: I’m a tea drinker. Most people order coffee and even in the best restaurants, iced coffee used to be tolerated. When I order, I get uplifted eyes and a “Yes, of course!”

I’ve found wait staffs are very solicitous of coffee drinkers, often carrying two pots, “regular” and decaffeinated, around a table, pouring second and third cups of coffee.

The tea drinker is virtually ignored. Usually, I have to use my most discreet means of hand signaling to indicate I’d like the same cup of tea or pot of hot water. I don’t mind using a tea bag a second time. Honest!

Often, when I order tea, the server will bring a cup of hot water with the tea bag in the saucer. This troubles me. I like my tea “brisk”; not scalding but sufficiently hot to get the full flavor of tea. All I see when the hot water arrives is the second steeping time in its trip from the server will bring a cup of hot water in the close confines of a covered vessel.

Generally, I ask the server to bring a cup of hot water. Then, my ritual consists of placing the tea bag in the pot and letting it steep in the close confines of a covered vessel.

What bothers me most is that restaurants charge the same price for tea as they do coffee, yet they don’t give the tea drinker the same consideration as coffee drinkers.

Rx for the homeless: quarantine

It’s always interesting to me to note the evolution of magazines over a period of time, particularly the New Yorker, and occasionally in a very short time span. In the latter instance, think of The New Yorker within the last two or three weeks became something else again, most assuredly not the seventy-year-old publication with a character all its own.

Change, often radical change, happens all the time, frequently depending on new ownership, or on a downturn in fiscal circumstances, or the accession of a new editor (which in turn sometimes is linked to different proprietorship). Publishers who have acquired a periodical in order to give themselves a voice can be counted on to insist on enough of a change of direction so that they will be apishly noticed. Magnates such as S.I. Newhouse and Rupert Murdoch, of course, have sometimes, in the fire that their motivations are mixed, but always include the money factor. Even so, they don’t always can afford to be as whimsical and play favorites. The New Yorker is a classic example.

So far, I haven’t mentioned New York’s other newsmakers, no matter which, even after more than a quarter century, still struggles to be regarded in the same serious light as The New Yorker. Its problem, I believe, is its spoti- teness: it has so many "special" issues, there is no need to the reader can never know whether the week’s contents will be general enough to warrant one of its regular writers is the soft drinks. When considering the amount of tea that can be made from one tea bag, the potential profits seem sizable.

These new bottled concoctions of tea are unsatisfactory to me because I’ve never been happy with tea that hasn’t been brewed within a reasonable time before consumption. When ordering iced tea, I usually ask the server if the tea is fresh-brewed in contrast to the powdered variety. Should the server say it is powdered tea (and I really can’t make any difference) then I ask for a hot pot of tea and a large glass with ice cubes. I proceed to make my own iced tea at the table. Yes, I ama nuisance but I’m too old to change.

While travelling in Florida and Louisiana during the past year, I was reminded that restaurants are very accepting of iced tea drinkers. Invari- ably, the tea is fresh-brewed and the server brings two signals for second servings because the cause the server is usually right on the spot asking if you want more.

I have two fond memories of tea drinking. During World War II, I was aboard a troop ship which was going to serve as a hospital ship after an invasion. So, with the prospective patients in mind during his return trip, captains conserved coffee on our 30-day voyage by serving it only during breakfast. At lunch and dinner, tea was served exclusively.

I was never happier because, up to that time, the Marine Corps could not have cared less for tea drinkers. They knew it was the fistic and I have reason to believe it was a great military plan. Those guys were so mad when we arrived in the enemy held island nothing could stop them from taking it as quickly as possible, if only a good cup of coffee.

Then there was a waitress in a diner I frequent to have break- fast before work. As I sat on the stool at the corner, a pot of tea would be placed in front of me. I hadn’t been married to the short order cook, no telling what might have resulted.

In light of these facts, almost everyone on Capitol Hill seems to agree that we can develop a plan which is better than the one which is now in place. The only problem is that everyone seems to have a different idea as to what that plan ought to be.

Actual enactment of the legislation won’t come until next year — after necessary study, critiquing, improvements, and debate on the President’s bill.

In my opinion it is going to take a considerable period of time to study the President’s plan, to critique it, and to improve upon it, before a vote is taken in Congress. The problem of the homeless is not one of housing, but of health.

"Thousands of homeless men are sick and dying, and they are dying from their diseases on oth- ers.”

"Because of the health emerg- ency," he maintains, the military bases that are being closed should be turned into "homeless sanctuaries," with their basic principle: quarantine.

Many kinds of regulation would take place, including detoxification, physical rehab, indoctrination of the work ethic, and sustained education in subjects that most have never heard of. starting with Marcus Aurelius.

The inhabitants also would be exposed to great art, great music, great movies, great literature works of human beings that make life longer, deeper, happier. "Homeless are people who have nothing to lose," he concludes. "In the midst of this health emergency, are the rest of us?"

I can’t think of another time in New York magazine’s history when such an article would have been deemed publishable.

The contributor of this Point of View has been United States Representative from New York’s 23rd District since 1989. He is a member of the Ways and Means Committee of the House of Representatives.

By Michael R. McNulty, M.C.

Now that Congress has enacted the President’s deficit reduc- tion plan, the next significant challenge facing the nation is our health-care crisis.

Even if President Clinton’s budget plan works as anticipated and produces $500 billion in deficit reduction over the next five years, the fact is that our deficit will move upward again unless we enact a comprehensive program which controls health-care costs.

While I share the President’s commitment to something about this pressing problem, I differ with him with regard to a timable. President Clinton is unveiling his plan this month, and is still talking about enactment during the 1993 congressional session. Such hasty action on this complex issue is not desir- able, or, in my opinion.

We in the United States spend more on health care, per capita, than any other nation on earth. And still, we have more than 37 million citizens who have no health-care coverage at all.

In light of these facts, almost everyone on Capitol Hill seems to agree that we can develop a plan which is better than the one which is now in place. The only problem is that everyone seems to have a different idea as to what that plan ought to be.

Commercial companies that are being closed should be turned into "homeless sanctuaries," with their basic principle: quarantine.

Many kinds of regulation would take place, including detoxification, physical rehab, indoctrination of the work ethic, and sustained education in subjects that most have never heard of. starting with Marcus Aurelius.

The inhabitants also would be exposed to great art, great music, great movies, great literature works of human beings that make life longer, deeper, happier. "Homeless are people who have nothing to lose," he concludes. "In the midst of this health emergency, are the rest of us?"

I can’t think of another time in New York magazine’s history when such an article would have been deemed publishable.

North Bethlehem Fire Department does its work quietly, professionally

Editor, The Spotlight:

We would also like to be counted among those who wish the Town of Bethlehem well its Bicentennial celebration.

However, we were more than a little disappointed to note that our department’s name was not on the list of fire departments within the Town. Allison Bennett, in her article in the Sept. 1 Bicentennial edition of The Spotlight, listed and gave a brief history of the four other departments, but failed to mention the North Bethlehem, Inc.

The department was established in 1948 and currently has 28 active members. We provide emergency medical services (EMS) and fire protection for a district that includes sections of three townships (Bethlehem, Guilderland and New Scotland). In addition, we contract with the Thruway Authority to provide fire protection from Exit 24 to Exit 25.

In 1991, the department became the first department within the town to establish a volunteer service award program for its members. We greatly appreciate the confidence and support conveyed by the citizens of our district in voting to approve that program.

Recently, the Beverwyck senior citizens apartment complex opened in our district. With this opening, we will join a growing number of departments with direct electronic links between structures and the firehouse at 589 Russell Road. Via modern hookup, a computer at the Beverwyck will send information to a printer at the firehouse identifying the exact location and nature of all alarms activated within the complex.

The North Bethlehem Fire Department is not known by all of the community is invited to attend our open meetings, whether you have a child in that school or not.

Each school has a Building Leadership Team, assisting the district in formulating educational goals, and allow all members of our academic “family” to have input into every aspect of school life. These meetings occur every month, and are open to the public.

Our athletic department has a Sports Boosters club, that assists in financing the scholastic athletic program, and thereby relieves taxpayers of some of the burden. They are constantly in need of new members, as well as ideas how to improve the sports program.

Many students are in dire need of tutors in math, science, English, social studies, and other academic areas. Many residents have a wealth of knowledge that they could share with young people, to help them get through their problem areas and be successful.

The School Board meets twice a month, on the first and third Mondays. We are constantly dismayed at how few residents show up, especially since at every meeting decisions are made that affect every aspect of our district’s population.

We have a vibrant, knowledgeable community in the borders of the R-C-S district; let’s not just get involved year-round.

Joseph Laux, Trustee, R-C-S Central School Board of Education

R-C-S trustee urges all to ‘get involved’
Club digs in heels for new field

The Bethlehem Soccer Club's new motto, "If you build it, they will come," is for their very own "field of dreams." On Sept. 25 and 26, the club is asking the Bethlehem community to come out in full force to work at the Soccerplex.

The 20-acre field is located on Wemple Road off of Route 9W in Glenmont. The work days will begin at 7 a.m. and continue until dark. Participants must wear work clothes, boots, and gloves and bring rakes, shovels, and plenty to drink.

Come for whatever length of time your family can spare.

The development planned on site thus far will complete the first four fields. Donated earth-moving equipment has leveled the ground and spread tons of donated crushed stone and gravel in the parking area. Seeding must be completed by Oct 15.

The new property will enable the club to meet the increased demand for soccer and to provide an adequate number of well drained fields for Intracub and Travel team use. This fall, the number of Bethlehem Intracub players reached 840 and more than 200 Travel and Over 30 players.

The club is also looking for the "next generation" to step forward and participate in running the Bethlehem Soccer Club. There are several vacancies on the board that need to be filled now.

New volunteers will ease into their roles under the guidance of present members. Call Maureen Geis at 439-5055 or Theresa Barrowman at 475-1150 to join.

Though contributions have been coming in at a steady rate to meet mortgage and development needs, donations would be greatly appreciated to cover the continuing cost of the new facilities.

KeyBank employees practice good neighbor policy

By Mel Hyman

Jeanie Clother, manager of the Delmar Key Bank branch, thinks it should be an annual event.

Not just because she received a half day off from her normal routine, but mostly because it's a good idea. "We claim to be a neighborly bank, so we'd better get out there," she said.

That was the apparent motivation behind last week's volunteer effort in which Key Bank employees from Alaska to Maine donated their services for an afternoon to community groups.

Locally, it was Bethlehem seniors who benefited. Clother was part of a small contingent that helped prepare and serve meals at the weekly congregate lunch meal sponsored by Bethlehem Senior Citizen Services.

Aimed at homebound seniors in their 80s and 90s, the congregate meal was served at the Delmar Presbyterian Church on Delaware Avenue. "I think it should be a yearly thing," Clother said as she whipped a big pot of mashed potatoes. "I think it's going to be a great meal."

More than 1,500 Key Bank employees from the highest to the lowest fanned out across the Capital District performing an afternoon of community service and still receiving their pay. After the lunchtime event, Janis Bulger, a bank assistant at the Elsmere Key Bank branch, carves a turkey for seniors gathered at the Delmar Presbyterian Church last week. Elaine McLain which also included some entertainment, another contingent of bank employees proceeded to the town hall to wash, vacuum and spruce up the Bethlehem Senior transportation vans.

Chances are good that last week's outreach program will become an annual event, according to bank spokeswoman Karla Rogers. "Since we first tried it in 1990, in Alaska, it's been catching on."

This was the first year it was tried in New York, which has the largest number of branches in the chain, she noted. And based on this year's results, "I'm sure it's something we'd like to keep repeating."

Correction

Due to an editorial error, School's Out was omitted from the listing of day care centers in last week's Community Services Guide.

The program, based at the First United Methodist Church at 428 Kenwood Ave., provides school-age child care — before and after school, half days, holidays and vacation weeks. It also offers kindergarten enrichment.

The recently renewed franchise agreement between Cablevision and the town of Bethlehem provided for additional support for the town's two public access outlets at the library and at Bethlehem Central High School.

As a result, according to head of media services Caroline MacArthur, TV31 has a new microphone, CD player and mixer for enhanced audio.

Another addition is a computer-generated production system called a Video Toaster. The system will allow the cable channel to create animation, superimpose graphics on still images and generate more than 200 special effects.

In addition, the station's video components are being upgraded to SVHS format. "SVHS equipment is of higher quality which will result in superior, more professional looking tapes produced at the studio," says MacArthur.

Public access, by which cable operators make available free channel space and production capability for community residents, is an important facet of cable television.

TV31 provides an outlet for local writers, musicians and other talented individuals and community groups.

The new SVHS camcorder will facilitate on-location videotaping of the Labor Day Bethlehem Bicentennial Parade. The nearly two-hour tape of the event will be broadcast on TV31 tonight, Sept. 22, and Wednesday, Sept. 29.

Both showings will begin at 6:30 p.m. As a public service for area residents who are not cable subscribers, the tape of the parade will also be shown in the community room at 7 p.m. on Monday, Sept. 27, and at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Oct. 13.

"If you are familiar with the studio, you'll notice a great improvement," she said. "If you've never been in before, you'll be impressed by what this new state-of-the-art equipment can do. This is your channel. Come on in and see it, and learn how you and your neighbors can use it."

The Spotlight remembers

This week in 1983, these stories were making headlines in The Spotlight:

• When Bert Kohinke, Bethlehem's supervisor from 1959 to 1975, moved to Florida, a front-page story noted that he was instrumental in attracting industries like General Electric and Owens-Corning to Bethlehem. Kohinke also worked to develop town parks, the police department, spring and fall debris pickup and the Youth Employment Service.

• New Scotland had been active in the Voorleesville American Legion Post, Boy Scout Troop 73, the village fire department and ambulance service, St. Matthew's Church and youth baseball.

• The Voorleesville varsity football team crushed Taconic Hills in its opener. The Blackbirds' quarterback Ken Radfery was 5-for-9 for 101 yards and one touchdown and rushed for 50 yards in six carries, all in the first three quarters.

• Defending its league and sectional crowns, Bethlehem Central's varsity girls tennis team defeated a strong Niskayuna team 6-2. Singles winners were Judy Jones, Leanne Corey and Ellen Berry, and Barbara Hupp and Carolyn Cross. Kelly Hunt and Colby Woodruff and Joanne Peyrebrune and Libby Thomas swept the doubles matches.

Share your memories of community history

Last May, the library hosted one of the most popular programs in its history when community residents gathered to share reminiscences of life in the area.

Browsing through scrapbooks and listening to stories, participants sometimes laughed until they cried as they dredged up long-buried snatches of the past.

The evening's only drawback was running out of time before everyone got a chance to get reacquainted and doing it again.

Memories II is set for Thursday, Sept. 23, at 10 a.m. and of Nimblefingers Quilters, both on Tuesday, Sept. 21, at 10 a.m.

No matter how successful the evening—and of the evening’s success, we’re getting together to have fun. Anyone is welcome to come to these events or just to come and listen.

The program is sponsored by the Bethlehem Public Library Foundation, which is inviting everyone to help support our community by participating in these events.

BC starting to gel, Maginn next

By Joshua Kagan

The Bethlehem football improved their record to 3-0 on Friday, Sept. 17, by routing the Columbia Blue Devils 42-0.

The Eagles ran all over Columbia on offense and shut down the Blue Devils on defense. The Bethlehem line dominated on both sides of the ball.

Eagle running back Rob Kind scored three touchdowns and made four of five extra points, that kind of thing. To sustain that, those kinds of drives, you have to run the ball. We did that.

"I think after Friday's game the whole team's real confident," Kind said. "I'm confident in my line and I think the line is confident in me. I like running behind Jim Boyle and John Mataragas, the big guys." BC's defense held the Blue Devils to just five first downs the entire game, two in the first half. The Eagle defensive line combined for 11 tackles in the first half, during which Bethlehem built up a 30-0 lead.

In the first half, Mataragas led the defense with four tackles and two assists. Mark Deyss added four tackles, John Hemstead made three tackles and one assist; and Matt Pollis two tackles and one assist.

Kind scored his first touchdown on a 72-yard kickoff return to open the second half that put BC up 27-0.

BC's final score was made by BC back-up halfback Brendan Noonan. He led a 60-yard drive capped by his 8-yard touchdown run.

It was Bethlehem's first home game after two road victories.

"When we play at home we're a different team," Kind said. "We're starting to gel, Maginn next day, Sept. 23, at home.

"I told them to maintain their focus," Sodergren said. "We've got a short week with a huge game with Maginn Thursday night, so it's a short week in terms of our preparation.

"Maginn is very fast. They have a team that's very fast, as a team. They're very difficult to contain. We're going to have to score some points."
Lady netters nip Nisky

By Jaime Czajka

On Friday, Sept. 17, the girls varsity tennis team defeated Niskayuna for the first time in two years which brought their record to 24-0. "It was a big win," said Coach Grace Franze. "Five-four is a close score and it was very exciting to end the streak." Junior Jen Parkowski made the difference. The score was tied 4-4 when Jen came out and won the last of her three sets, which was the deciding match for the Eagles.

"When I found out that my match was the deciding match, I was really excited cause I knew that I had made my contribution to the team’s success," Parkowski said.

"Jen really showed her strength cut there," said Franze. "It was an important match and it was very exciting to find out that my girls are going really well for us," said Franze. "The girls are playing well together and are having a great time. Niskayuna was a big win for us and it gave the girls the confidence they need."

It seems as though the girls are on a streak now. They came out and won their first match 63 against Burnt Hills on Tuesday, Sept. 14 and now look as if they’re well on their way to the division championship.

This was an interesting match because there were five, three-set matches. BC won four of these five, which clinched the victory for them. Annette Granty and Bracaglia both won their three-setters and winning doubles three-setters were Burris and Oberheim and junior Becky Furman and her partner freshman Julia Krepstman.

Thomas won a two-setter at number five and Cunningham and Bloom defeated their opponents in two sets. "Burnt Hills is a very strong team, easily one of the strongest in our division, so it was an important win for us," said Franze.

The girls play this Friday at home versus Saratoga. Although Saratoga is not in their division, it is still going to be a big match. "They’re a very tough team," Franze said. "They’ve already beaten Burnt Hills 8-1 and look very strong. Our girls are up for it though and are going to be real competition for them."
Bethlehem runners make strong showing
By Carly Moskowitz

Bethlehem’s cross country team is gearing up for a long competitive season after last year’s 1-9 record for the boys and 2-8 performance for the girls.

"It is going to be a promising season for Bethlehem cross country runners," said Mike Fritts, who, in the view of BC coach John Nyilia, is the best runner on the boys team.

Nyilia has both teams training hard by mixing interval training and hill workouts. During inter­val training the runner repeatedly sprints a certain distance, then jogs. The runner sprints up and down hills.

The cross country team’s first meet was at Johnstown High School on Sept. 18. The Bethlehem boys team placed third in the Johnstown Invitational behind Burnt Hills and Saratoga.

The girls placed third behind Saratoga and Schenectady.

"The Suburban Council is the strongest cross­country league in the state," said Nyilia.

Cross-Country

New York State,* Nyilia said. "Saratoga High School is ranked number one in the entire coun­try.

The freshmen team finished second out of 13 teams. Andy McMillan was second for the freshmen, losing out on first place by one second.

Mike Fritts placed 13th overall for the varsity. Brian Garver placed 14th, Adam Bender was 16th, Ken Schulz was 18th and Matt Goldberg finished 19th.

Kristen Runo finished 9th overall for the girls. Cara Cameron was 10th.

The boys varsity teams consist of Fritts, Garver, Bender, Akira Suzuki, a foreign exchange student, Goldberg, Schulz and Chad Davey.

The girls’ team consists of Runo, Cameron, Katie McDowell, Betsy Hallenbeck and Jill Foster.

Voorheesville boys suffer tough losses
By Kelly Griffin

The Voorheesville boys soccer team began its season the hard way last week, racking up two consecutive losses.

The first was at the hands of Waterford and the second Albany Academy. "It was definitely hard to open our season like that on our home field," said coach Bob Brandall in reference to the Water­ford game. "And then to face Academy in our second outing, that was rough.

"But we began our season with matchups against the two best teams in the league," he contin­ued. "We’re just a shade under­neath their level. We were in both games." Voorheesville’s season opener versus Waterford last Thursday was a very even­matched encounter. Waterford earned its single score halfway through the first half.

Vville pushed hard and actu­ally put in what looked to be the tying goal in the second half. Yet the officials called it back on a push by a Voorheesville player.

The Blackbirds were conse­quently defeated 1-0. "We’ll have a chance at them again," Brandall noted.

In the game against Academy on Saturday, September 18, de­fensive errors directly contributed to the loss. "We had too many breakdowns on defense," Cran­dall said. "Academy took advan­tage of them and scored all three of their goals in the first half.

The Blackbirds struck back, playing better in the second half and almost walked away with a win. They played four times better than they had earlier in the week, and they did," said Brandall.

Riverbank revel features events from Fort Hunter to Hudson

By Donna Moskowitz

Long ago, people settled near rivers because they were a good means of transportation. Although they are not as heavily-traveled today, the Hudson and Mohawk rivers still attract many visitors to their shores.

On Sunday, Oct. 3, thousands of Capital District residents are expected to flock to the banks of the Hudson and the Mohawk for the area's third annual Riverwalk.

The purpose of the Riverwalk is "to help people to appreciate our community by seeing its history and seeing what we have here to enjoy," said Nancy Racette, director of development for the Hudson Valley Girl Scout Council which, along with the Mohawk Pathways Girl Scout Council, is sponsoring the event.

The Riverwalk is actually a series of events which will be going on at 11 different sites. The festivities extend west to Fort Hunter in Montgomery County, east to Troy Riverfront Park, and south to the Hudson Boat Launch and Promenade Hill Park in Hudson. Shuttle buses will provide transportation between most locations, because some of the sites are inaccessible by car.

More than 50 different organizations are scheduled to participate, from the Adirondack Mountain Club to the YWCA. One of the highlights will be a boat ride through Lock 7 of the Erie Canal in Niskayuna. Sponsored by the state Thruway Authority, the ride will cost 50 cents.

The trip through the lock is probably one of the most popular events of the Riverwalk, Racette said. The rides will begin at 11 a.m. and continue until 4 p.m., while most events begin at noon and run until 5 p.m.

A sampling of the hundreds of events located at the 11 different "stations" include: wagon rides, a juggling jamboree, scavenger hunts, Navaho rug weaving, contra dance lessons, a magic show, an orienteering course, a llama petting zoo, ecology awareness, quilting demonstrations, a Civil War re-enactment and folk singing, to name just a few.

And — with the exception of food — most events are free.

Racette said she is particularly impressed by the level of cooperation between all the different organizations involved in the Riverwalk. "All of the programs are done by outside organizations," she said.

While records of the numbers of people participating in last year's Riverwalk were not maintained, Racette said, vendors at the Corning Preserve estimate 2,500 people attended. "There were more than that at Lock 7 in Niskayuna," she said.

Riverwalk includes a number of environmental programs, such as one on sorting household waste and another on water quality by the state Department of Environmental Conservation. However, the Riverwalk does not focus specifically on environmental issues. The emphasis is more on education and enjoyment. "It's a program about rivers in our environment, about historical information, about our area," said Racette.

Free Riverwalk maps and program books, which include information on parking and shuttle bus stops, are available from Capital District Super Shop 'N Save markets, Nice 'N Easy convenience stores and branches of Key Bank.

Institute's Cole exhibit reveals romantic nature

It's safe to say that many people have never heard of 19th-century landscape painter Thomas Cole.

However, those who visit the Albany Institute of History and Art on Washington Avenue over the next two months will almost certainly increase their knowledge of this historical figure.

Considered to be the founder of the Hudson River School of landscape painting, Cole was one of the most famous American painters of the last century. Inspired by the wilderness of upstate New York and New England, he developed a style of painting based on a naturalistic but romanticized view of nature.

A large collection of his drawings, paintings, prints, sculpture and a variety of manuscript materials including maps, broadsides, journals and other materials are also featured at the exhibit. / Exhibit page 25 that being the solution,” said Bethlehem Police Lt. Richard Vanderbilt, committee chairman.

Vanderbilt noted that traffic studies conducted this past summer, nearly 1,400 cars traveled Fernbank Avenue on an average weekday. For comparison purposes, the committee took a count for Wellington Road, a parallel street running between Elsmere Avenue and Delaware via Hawthorne Avenue and Winne Road. Only about 500 cars were found to be using Wellington on a daily basis.

“We’re looking for some way to decrease the heavy traffic flow on Fernbank and the speeding that goes along with it,” said Ed Rosen, a Fernbank Avenue resident.

Other options that have been discussed, such as the installation of sidewalks or making Fernbank a one-way street, “are not in the cards,” he said.

I think we got a fair hearing, although some of the neighbors were disappointed that it’s been postponed again. I’d just like to see the needle point a little more toward being responsive to the feelings of the neighbors,” Rosen said.

on Thursday, Sept. 16, and issued an official statement.

Board chairman Joseph Keller said: “The board of fire commission has determined that some of the members of Selkirk No. 3 held a party for one of their active members at the firehouse. Apparently an argument between members and guests started and escalated into the parking lot.

“Members of the fire company called in the local police to break up the disturbance, and no arrests were made. The board feels that this is inappropriate behavior on behalf of its members and guests and is instructing its members that this should not be allowed to happen again.”
